

Some things we can count,
some things we can't count.

We often use measured amounts with uncountable nouns.

We can't count milk,
but we can count
glasses of milk.

We can't count jam,
but we can count
jars of jam.

We can't count rice,
but we can count
bowls of rice.

We can't count butter,
but we can count
packets of butter.

a cup of tea

a bottle of ketchup

a jug of water

a loaf of bread

a slice of bread

a piece of cheese